Ford's New Treaver.—The romantically beautiful, yet truthful, play of "Fanchon, the Cricket." with the entrancing Miss Maggie Mitchell as the heroise, was produced in magnifeent style last evening, at this most prominent theatre, hefore an intellectual and excessively crowded autilence, and was received with every mark of unmistikable, hearty applause and pleasure by all present, the was number of isides particularly. The play was originally performed at the Royal Berlin theatre, where it created the greatest sensation; and shaving been translated for Eegish and American representation, by an eminent dramatic writer, it has achieved in Miss Mitchell's bands a success entirely unprecedented; for abe is one of those natural, sparking, original, patise actresses who are capital in everything they undertake; and she can never fall to be "a mist acceptable in our historican from ment." Fanchon is a character who, under the aubile influence of love, gradually develops a goodness of disposition and general bent towards virtuous principles, whereby she eventually gains the heart of the man of her chalco and triumphs gloriously over the entry, hatred, and uncharitable meas of the rustic community of which she had previously been a despised and rejected member. The scenic effects of the play are beautiful in the extreme; the music and dances glorious—particularly the "Shadow Dance," which Miss Mitchell excoutes in grand style. The character of Didier, by Mr. Alvin Read, was originally performed by him in New Orleans; consequently he came quite naturally in his old part again. The ther characters were all well rendered.

The Florences, Mr. and Mrs. W. J., have entered upon their second week, with all the glory of crowded and fashionable audiences that attended them during the first. The fash jossible beatre was again the scene of such a jam of appreciative amusement seekers, that large numbers were mable to gain admission. "Ireland as it Was" was produced in manificating entered by a brilliant sudience. Mr. Forence was musually happy as Rigged Pat, and Mrs. Florence evinced practically for remarkable versatility as Judy O'Frot. The please would have surely had a successful run for the sentire week, but the management, when upon furnishing the greatest possible variety of popular entertainments, the firsh Mormon, of the Man with Three Wives, its the first pices; the performance to conclude with the ever-laughable protein farce entitled "A Le son for Husbands," in which Mrs. Florence sustains six characters, singing and sancting in various parts. Between the pieces, Koppitz will perform, for the sen ond time, his grand polymers midiative, entitled "A Day with the Irish Begade." Mr. Florence is annuacced to appear at an early date in the Burtonian character of Toolles.

Mr. Gordon said that money should not be an object in legislating on a matter so important to the interest and welfare of our city. He favored the organization of a thorough, well paid steam fire department.

Mr. Shepherd was opposed to a paid fire department. He could not say that the present bill is perfect, but he favored this as the best yet presented. The fire department had met and agreed on this bill, and he desired to accede to their wishes. He believed that steam free engines are necessary. But the Mayor does not, and he even intimates that he will veto a bill proposing to introduce them.

Mr. Lloyd gave a history of the bill, and urged, at considerable length, the passage of the bill.
